

CONFERENCE ON PHILOSOPHY, LIFE SCIENCES, & SOCIETY

March 27–28, 2009
Franklin & Marshall College

Bonchek Lecture Hall • Barshinger Life Sciences & Philosophy Building

Friday, March 27, 4:30 PM

Postgenomic Darwinism

John Dupré, Professor of Philosophy of Science, University of Exeter; and Director,
ESRC Center for Genomics in Society

Saturday, March 28, 10 AM

When Socially Determined Categories Make Biological Realities: Understanding Black/White Health Disparities in the United States

Jonathan Kaplan, Associate Professor of Philosophy,
Oregon State University
Former fellow, Stanford University's Program in Genomics, Ethics, and Society.

Saturday, March 28, 2 PM

Social Values and Scientific Evidence

Inmaculada De Melo-Martin, Associate Professor, Cornell University,
Weill Medical College, Division of Medical Ethics

Saturday, March 28, 4 PM

Deploying Highly Idealized Models

Michael Weisberg, Associate Professor of Philosophy,
University of Pennsylvania

For more information, contact Beth Betrone (beth.betrone@fandm.edu) or visit www.fandm.edu/x21301.

Co-sponsored by the Bonchek Institute for Reason and Science in a Liberal Democracy, CLAS, Philosophy, Biology, SPM, and Bonchek College House.