

What did you do over fall break?

Tom Hague '15: I went to Pittsburgh with fellow Warian Adam Eller!

Francis Blancero '13: I flew to Bath, England to visit my girlfriend!

Sara Blank '14: I slept a lot and spent time with my family!

Noah Sunshine '15: I went home and saw my family and friends and cut it up on the dance floor at my old high school.

Katie Hetrick '12: I got strep throat and then I got pneumonia. But I drank lots of orange juice and had lots of soup and now I'm better.

Ware Mentors off to a Great Start!

Ware has had an exciting few months since the start of school with continuing the fabulous traditions of delicious bagels breakfasts and late-night den study sessions. Excitingly, this year, Ware has introduced another tradition that has already proved to be a roaring success and will surely continue in years to come: Ware Mentors. This program, pioneered by many members of Ware Parliament, is already off to a great start. By pairing an upper-classmen with a freshman, Ware Mentors offers the opportunity for bonding, activities, and any other fun the pair may choose to have. "It's really what you make of it," explains Bryan Stabbe, Ware House's Prime Minister.

Says Sarah Strong, Ware

Mentor director, "Ware mentors is a great way for first years to get to know upperclassmen and for upperclassmen to continue involvement in the house! We also have held two events in downtown Lancaster so far, which is a way for first-years to explore the areas off campus and see what cool stuff there is to do in downtown Lancaster!"

With a sensational First Friday extravaganza and a trip to Central Market already accomplished and many more plans underway (have we heard rumors of a fort building contest?), Ware mentors has already proved itself to be a fun and interactive way to create inter-year relationships and maintain house engagement.

It's not all fun and games though! In typical Warian fashion, the directors of this program make it clear that they intend to use this program as a way to give back to the community, preparing for days contributing to community service and furtherance of the surrounding area and neighborhood.

We look forward to seeing what other ways Ware Mentors will surprise us and wow us not only this semester, but in coming years. Congratulations to all involved! We can't wait to see what awesome and fun things you will do!

Ware goes to Hershey!

Ware College House participated in another inter-house extravaganza this month via the Hershey Park in the Dark trip on the 22nd of October. Students from every house left for the park at 5:30 and had the option of roaming the park or seeing the Hershey Bears face off against the Wilks-Barre-Scranton Penguins in hockey.

Students that went to the park found Halloween themed rides and vendors with various Halloween gimmicks, gearing up for the 30th. Howling Himalaya and Alien Orbiter were student favorites on the slightly frigid night. Those that opted for the warmer Bears game saw quite an intense competition (especially if you sat near Prime Minister Bryan Stabbe- his shouting arguably made the game). Unfortunately, the Bears couldn't quite pull it together, but managed to prevent a shutout in the last period.

The whole trip proved to be a lot of fun, and those who went were very satisfied with the experience. The tickets left over at the end of the night were gifted to the courteous bus drivers as students parted ways (some to Pandini's for a late night snack, others back to their dorms), and the good mood from the trip lingered for the remainder of the night.

Don's Corner!

If you ask Warians from past years to name their favorite event, you'll no doubt hear that the annual Thanksgiving Dinner is always in the running. On Tuesday, November 15th, we'll gather again in the Catering Suite - 160 of us - and enjoy the privilege of sharing our bounty with political refugees from Bhutan and Nepal. WARE in the World, our social-outreach committee ensures that each year, the meaning of the holiday takes on added significance, and this year we're proud to keep the tradition going. Mark your calendars now: the last week before Thanksgiving Break is filled with events, so we reserved the suite early to ensure that WARE's T-giving Dinner will be one to remember again.

PLEASE be sure to R.S.V.P. to your HA when you receive your invitation. (These are the same HAs you'll enjoy watching carve a whole turkey: no processed turkey breast for the Ware College House!) Check out last year's turkey carvers on the Windows into Ware display in the Commons.
