

Visiting Assistant Professor and/or Visiting Instructor in Biological Psychology, Franklin & Marshall College

The Psychology Department at Franklin & Marshall College invites applications for a visiting assistant professor (if Ph.D. is earned by July 1, 2018) and/or visiting instructor (if ABD) during academic year 2018-2019. Appointment is for a one-year term starting July 1, 2018 with possibility of extension for a second year contingent upon teaching performance and administrative approval. Teaching load is 3/2. Successful candidates will teach Biological Psychology and contribute to one or more teaching areas: Conditioning & Learning, Introductory Psychology, and/or Experimental Design and Statistics. The department is committed to excellence in teaching and scholarship, emphasizing student research and laboratory experience throughout the curriculum.

Applicants must submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, a statement of teaching philosophy, a sampling of teaching evaluation forms, and a research statement via Interfolio (<https://apply.interfolio.com/48025>). Applicants must arrange for three letters of recommendation to be submitted by referees directly to Interfolio. Submission of selected pre/reprints through Interfolio is optional. The cover letter must address your fitness for the position based on teaching and research experience. Pursuant to the College's vision for cultivating a diverse and inclusive community, the search committee asks all applicants to address how their past and/or potential contributions might serve to advance F&M's commitment to teaching and mentoring young people from a variety of personal experiences, values, and worldviews that arise from differences of culture and circumstance. Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis, but for full consideration, materials must be submitted by February 2, 2018. Inquiries may be directed to Dr. Ryan T. Lacy, rlacy@fandm.edu.
